Class Song

TUNE: OUR LADY OF FATIMA

Dear graduates of Kulpmont High, tonight we say adieu,
We wish to thank our teachers for their help and guidance too.
Dear parents won't you show us the right and shining way
To banish fear and selfishness in all our future days?
Our future lies ahead of us the ladder dark and steep,
We are thankful for the memories we have to cherish and keep.
Alma Mater, we shall miss you as we bid you fond farewell,
Our Class shall ne'er forget you
For all your virtues will tell.

RECITATION

We did enjoy our school days but how they did drift by.
To our teachers we ascribe the praise; it was they who bade us try.
We'll always remember your fineness; We'll ever keep you in mind
And try our best to unravel the problems we're sure to find.
As out in the world we travel we'll always to you remain true;
And never forget your kindness, As we through the years pursue.

January 2, 1960

(This column was prepared by our roving reporter Debbie Jennings pinch hitting for Poulella Larson who is on vacation. Miss Larson will resume her column entitled "I Told You So" upon her return on January 5, 1961.)

Broadway is having a big "late season"—twenty shows still to start. Preview audiences are raving about ELAINE CHIMEL's hilarious scenes in "Call Me Mimi." . . . . Colorful coach BRUCE ZENUCH is fast becoming the Knute Rockne of the University of Pennsylvania. The Penn squad has just completed its third season unbeaten and untied . . . JOAN DETESKI gives this reason for returning to the supper club circuits: she can't go to a party without being asked to sing, so she figures she might as well be paid for it! . . . PETER FERRARI, the Brooklyn cop, whose tip led to the raid on bookmaker NICK "the slick" VARANO hasn't been stationed in Brooklyn since he volunteered the information. NICK made it too torrid for him . . . As was bound to happen, CORINNE OLBRISH and MARTIN MARIANO have announced the date and place—a little white church in the valley . . . JOAN HORVATH's next novel —her third—will be another historical tale. . . When JOHN STELLAR of the Philadelphia Eagles was called upon to kick a field goal in his first pro game, he was so excited he missed the ball completely. . . . Good news—BILL DERR, our leatherneck, is now home from the service. . . . PETER MERENA has made many more cover pictures and group photos for Space magazine . . . Doctor MARGUERITE DELLABRIDA has been successful in her search for a cure for "hectiomyolitis". . . . MARY LONG will serve on a jury which will submit a verdict on "Muscles" FRANK NESTICO. . . . MARY ANN MULFORD is doing well in her career as fashion designer and will enter her styles in ISABELLE McNEVICH'S fashion show. . . . NICK SYVULICH, when asked how he came to kayo RALPH NARD, stated: "I had to prove that I do not have a yellow streak down my back!". . . . JACK HOWANEC, on his horse Durante, won the Kentucky Top Hat by a nose. . . . For the Chicago Skating Club's annual shindig, FRANCIS CICHOSKI, MARY DANIELS, SHIRLEY PARKER, JOAN DOMBROSKI, and FRANK KADYSZEWSKI are rehearsing their inner and outer edges like mad . . . Sleet, snow and ice didn't keep ANTHONY VARANO, JOE PACHICK, AND STANLEY POLESCHUCK from driving over from Beverly to respond to the Civilian Defense call—they sat from noon until 5:30 and were snowed in. . . . .THERESA COLICCHIO said to LORRAINE WASILEWSKI, (while dancing) "If I teach you to wiggle, it may help you get out of a lot of tight spots and the pleasure will be all mine." . . . .JACK BUCHINSKI of the Oklahoma Helens could be called the Cob Teller of basketball . . . . Former director of "Rat," JACK PIPA enplaned to the Virgin Islands in pursuit of cover girl PATSY McELWEE. . . . LEONARD STANITSKI is still scouting for a pianist for his show. . . . I know ANNA MARIE GARD will make the grade . . . M. D. MARK PHEASANT has finally hung out his shingle after ten years of study . . . ALMA BUSHICK, ROSE ANN BLASCO, and CHARLES GIDARO had a chance to congratulate FRANK DOMALESKI on his birthday at Hollywood Bottom Hat. Sid certainly doesn't look his age. . . . Due to an unprecedented public demand, the firm of MARILYN MOLESEVICH and GLORIA ALONSO Inc., dealers in notions, potions, and lotions, will remain open until the end of the week . . . TOM CHERNESKI would like to be a sport commentator like ANTHONY NIGLIO after he retires from baseball. If "Shifty" can speak like he can swing a bat, the air lines can prepare for a novel sensation . . . Aren't some of the country's top industrialists backing Senator ESTELLE BORIS for the Presidency in 1964? . . . Corporal JOSEPH TERRY, as marshal of the Winter Festival, received the first dance with queen NADIA SIMCHOCK . . . . The night was ablaze with flashbulbs at the first meeting of the Stereo Club. Reason: JOAN LUTZ was posing for camera fans, LUCILLE TURLIS, RICHARD RUTHS, MARSHALL PRIMERANO, and RONALD DEMBOSKY were there . . . . ALBERTA FEUDALE of "Breezewood" will return from a cruise to the East Indies soon. . . . VINCENT LASKOSKI, who slugged it out with tough gangsters wound up with some broken ribs from a chorus girl's elbow at the Copa. . . THOMAS CHESNEY has been deluged with telephone calls and mail since his recent speech on "World Affairs" . . . . HELEN CICHESKI'S front page troubles have boomed her rating as a night club personality. . . Secretary ERNESTINE CARABINI is often seen with her boss RAYMOND GLUCHOSKI . . . The air force has a mechanical brain figuring problems in guided missle control, shock waves, and vibrations—gives VINCENT BUCKWASH competition . . . . Another strong man who has emerged as a JOSEPH ORIBE confidante is former Attorney General BERNARD MARSHALEK. If he is in as solid as he appears to be at present, it may mean that they have ironed out all difficulties that arose during the primaries . . . . JOSEPH KORENKIEWICZ is building his own dream home—all he needs now is a wife. . . . MARIE RAINAL and MONICA MACHUSAK will soon be leaving their business careers—something they say is more important . . . . BETTY STARINSHAK is still trying to teach JUNE MARKOVICH the technique of hair styling . . . ARLINE VALIER was appointed professor of English in Jones College by president JOHN HORENGIC. She's quite proud of being the youngest prof. on the campus . . . Elevator operator ANGELO TOTER is having his troubles —he must repair the leaks in the roof for janitor LEO PIELACHA . . . RITA RICK still enjoys watching JOSEPH HANLON play spectacular football . . . PAUL DIAK enjoys Pizza Pie made by LORRAINE D'ALEXANDER . . . CATHERINE BOSLEGO is really serious about painting this time—she's planning to exhibit her work in BILL LAZARSKI'S art museum . . . BILL WARGO wrote that his famous ride from Blowchester to Oak River was not as glamorous as painted by contemporaries . . . THERESA APICHELLA chatted with friends ANNA MAE MIRIELLO and GERTRUDE SHEDLESKI in Theresa's little club . . . MARION LAZARSKI AND SONIA LAHAZA, buckeye divers invented the one and a half somersault with a one and a half twist and double twisting forward one and a half somersault . . . That twists my tongue badly. Can you imagine what would happen on the high board?

STORY: Richard Early is one of the numerous vice-presidents of a bank in one of Chicago's suburbs. Because his wife has an aggressive nature, and because she believes in devoting all of her waking hours to the rearing of her four children, she refuses to leave them and go on the world cruise that was suggested by them.

Mary and Bob complain continuously about being tied to their mother's apron strings, but it is Dick, a senior in medical school who finally starts the fireworks when he tells them he wants to get married before finishing school. Emily scouts the idea, but Dick persists and Hope, several years out of college and a social worker, defends Dick and rebels outwardly to her mother. She blames her for the failure of her romance with Sanford Welles, a young lawyer. Emily is shocked and having no weapon for defense appeals to Richard, and resorts to tears.

After a big argument with the family, the parents decide to take the trip. Delphie, the maid is left in charge of the family. Hope is left with the financial responsibility of the family. When they leave things really begin to happen. Mary begins to date Miriam Walker's cousin, Jack, who is a sophomore in college. On the first day Bob and Buzz Daily buy a car, they run into the rear end of a brand new Lincoln owned by Mrs. Forrester, and are charged with driving without a license as well as debt for damage to the car.

In the midst of all their troubles Dick and Jenny get married and move in with them.

When Jack refuses to bring Mary home from a college dance the same night she refuses to go, and turns to her old faithful boyfriend, Randy.

There are many problems to solve, but by the time Richard and Emily return, everything is straightened out. Hope resumes her romance with Sanford, Emily enjoyed the trip, and Dick and Jenny have enough money to start on their own. All in all, everything turns out just perfect.

STORY

When the play begins, Palmer Baxter is celebrating his tenth wedding anniversary. He and Evelyn, his wife, have lived far beyond their means and are broke. So Palmer writes Aunt Annie to contribute something toward "Junior's Education". Instead of sending the money, Aunt Annie decides to come east to see her nine-year old great-nephew. Palmer and his wife are in a panic. They have no son! At this juncture, a ragged newsboy aged fourteen, climbs the balcony to their second-floor apartment to get away from the police. He has run away from an orphans' home and he begs the Baxters to protect him. Palmer has an idea! Then he decides that here is "their boy." In exchange for protection and a home he agrees to be nine years old and their boy. The Aunt arrives and the spectacle of this tough though lovable boy of the streets dressed in youthful clothes and trying to be a gentleman is screamingly funny. Matters become very complicated when Chuck LeRoy, a pal of "The Kid" turns up. A novel twist of plot reveals the past of the Baxter's son and Chuck. A necklace is missing. "The Kid" thinks Chuck has stolen it and Chuck is convinced "The Kid" has. Actually neither is the thief, and they uncover the culprit. Finally "The Kid" finds a home and parents, and he reforms his pal Chuck, who has dishonest tendencies. Chuck also finds a home with Aunt Annie.
